

"After a $600 electric bill, I contacted my HVAC contractor. They came out, made some adjustments and then my next bill came...again over $600. My contractor then connected me with Barry at Paris BPU. Barry started tracking my usage daily and I still had something wrong. He worked with my contractor to help me get a new unit. Barry said the contractor came back to the house to check everything and make sure it was perfect. My first bill with this unit was less than $200. The thing I was most impressed with is that Barry not only came out with the contractor but came back after the process to check and make sure everything was working properly. I couldn't have been more pleased with my experience."
